Why We Recommend NuVet Labs

A Personal Recommendation from Corner Stone Bernese Mountain Dogs

At Corner Stone Bernese Mountain Dogs, the health, happiness, and overall well-being of our dogs and puppies have always been at the heart of everything we do. As dedicated breeders, we believe that providing our dogs with the best possible foundation for a long, healthy, and fulfilling life begins with proper nutrition, preventative veterinary care, responsible breeding practices, and a commitment to their overall wellness.

One company we have chosen to incorporate into our nutritional supplementation program and recommend to our puppy families is NuVet Labs.

We understand that there are countless supplements available on the market, and choosing what is best for your beloved companion can sometimes feel overwhelming. That is why we believe it is important to explain why we recommend NuVet Labs and why nutritional supplementation is something we encourage our families to discuss with their veterinarians.

1. Supporting Overall Health and Wellness

Our dogs are more than just part of our breeding program. They are beloved members of our family, and their health is extremely important to us. Even when feeding a high-quality, nutritionally balanced diet, we recognize that every dog has individual nutritional needs depending on age, activity level, overall health, and lifestyle. NuVet Labs offers nutritional supplements formulated for dogs, including products containing vitamins, minerals, antioxidants, and other ingredients intended to support general wellness. We appreciate having an additional nutritional option to consider as part of our dogs' overall care routines.

2. Supporting Immune System Health

One of the reasons we are interested in NuVet Labs is its focus on nutritional support for the immune system. A dog's immune system plays an important role in maintaining overall health. Proper nutrition, appropriate veterinary care, exercise, and a healthy environment all contribute to supporting normal immune function. NuVet's nutritional supplements contain ingredients intended to help support normal immune health. While no supplement can guarantee that a dog will never become sick, we believe it is worthwhile to consider nutritional products that may complement an already healthy lifestyle.

3. Joint Health and Mobility

As breeders of Bernese Mountain Dogs, we understand how important joint health and mobility are, particularly in large and giant breeds. Bernese Mountain Dogs can be predisposed to certain orthopedic concerns, including hip and elbow dysplasia. This is why responsible breeding practices, appropriate genetic and orthopedic screening, healthy weight management, and proper exercise are priorities within our program. NuVet Labs also offers joint-support supplementation designed to help maintain normal joint function and mobility. We appreciate having options that may help support joint wellness as our dogs mature and age. However, we also recognize that supplements cannot prevent inherited orthopedic conditions or replace veterinary treatment.

4. Skin and Coat Health

One of the most beautiful characteristics of the Bernese Mountain Dog is its gorgeous, thick, and luxurious coat. Maintaining healthy skin and a beautiful coat requires proper nutrition, routine grooming, parasite prevention, and attention to any underlying health concerns. Certain nutrients play important roles in maintaining normal skin and coat health. We value nutritional supplementation options that may help support these functions when appropriate for an individual dog. A healthy coat is not simply about appearance. Skin health is an important part of a dog's overall well-being.

5. Wellness Throughout Every Stage of Life

From playful puppies to mature adults and beloved seniors, we believe every stage of a dog's life deserves thoughtful, individualized care. Our goal is to provide our puppies with a strong beginning and encourage their families to continue prioritizing their health throughout their lives. As dogs grow and age, their nutritional requirements and individual needs can change. Having a company that offers different nutritional supplementation options gives families another resource to discuss with their veterinarians. We especially encourage puppy families to remember that supplements should be selected carefully for growing large-breed puppies, whose nutritional balance is extremely important for proper development.

6. Why We Chose to Recommend NuVet Labs

As breeders, we take recommendations seriously. When we recommend a company or product to our puppy families, we want them to understand that our intention is to encourage responsible, thoughtful decisions about their dog's health. What appeals to us about NuVet Labs is its focus on canine nutritional supplementation and its range of products designed to support different aspects of wellness. We believe that providing our families with information about available nutritional options is an important part of educating and supporting them beyond the day their puppy goes home. We also encourage every family to research the products they use, review ingredients, and consult their veterinarian about whether supplementation is appropriate for their individual dog.

7. Our Commitment Doesn't End When Your Puppy Goes Home

At Corner Stone Bernese Mountain Dogs, bringing home one of our puppies means becoming part of our extended Corner Stone family. Our commitment to our puppies does not end when they leave our home. We want to be a resource for our families, whether that involves nutrition, grooming, training, growth and development, or general wellness questions. We believe that educating puppy families about responsible care helps create the best possible environment for our puppies as they grow into adulthood. Recommending NuVet Labs is one part of our effort to share nutritional resources that families may wish to consider.

8. A Supplement Is an Addition, not a Replacement

We also want to emphasize something extremely important: No supplement can replace a complete and balanced diet, routine veterinary care, responsible breeding, appropriate exercise, or a loving home. Supplements are intended to complement a dog's nutritional program when there is a suitable reason to use them. We never want our puppy families to feel that a supplement alone guarantees better health, prevents disease, or eliminates the possibility of medical concerns. Our philosophy has always been to approach canine health from every angle and make informed decisions that prioritize each dog's individual needs.

Our Final Thoughts

When you welcome a Bernese Mountain Dog into your family, you are welcoming a loyal, loving, and devoted companion who deserves the very best care you can provide. Our goal as breeders is not simply to raise beautiful Bernese Mountain Dogs, but to raise healthy, happy, well-socialized puppies and help their families feel confident and supported throughout their journey. We recommend considering NuVet Labs because we value its focus on nutritional wellness and the additional supplementation options it provides for dog owners. We encourage our families to learn about the products, ask questions, and work alongside their veterinarians to determine what is best for their individual dogs.

Thank you for trusting Corner Stone Bernese Mountain Dogs and allowing us to be part of your journey. Your dogs' health, happiness, and well-being will always remain a priority to us.

With appreciation,
